Use appropriate cmd statements and then
Echo them in your bash script

The output of the cmd command is then fed onto grep using pipeline method as and when required

This output can be further processed by awk as and When found to be necessary